Americans Rushing Aid.

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—The weather bureau at 9:30 o'clock tonight issued the following advisory storm warning:
"Advisory 9:30 p. m.—Hurricane central about 75 miles southeast of Turks island moving northwest about 300 miles per day. It will probably continue moving same direction next 24 hours at least. Because of dangerous character of this storm vessels in vicinity of Bahamas should exercise greatest caution."

GOVERNOR DESCRIBES TERRIBLE DAMAGE

BY HORACE M. TOWNER,
Governor of Porto Rico.
(By Cable to the United News.)
San Juan, Porto Rico, September 14.—(United News.)—The storm which struck San Juan, the capital and principal city of the island, was the worst that ever visited this area. Full relief and rehabilitation probably will reach into the millions of dollars.

It is impossible to give details now because all telegraph and telephone and other means of communication have been destroyed. The roads are impassable.

No loss of life has thus far been reported but the destruction of homes is immense. Practically all of the frame structures on the island have been destroyed and tens of thousands of people are homeless. Assistance here is well organized.

MOST OF PEOPLE ARE NOW HOMELESS.

BY ANGEL RAMOS,
United News Special Correspondent.
San Juan, Porto Rico, September 14.—(United News.)—The full extent of the hurricane which rode over this island Thursday was partly realized tonight as reports trickled in from near-by points, where hundreds of wrecked homes attest the fury of the wind.

The disaster touched nearly every part of the island. Apparently all crops have been lost and possible famine and disease present a critical problem to many thousands of persons who already have lost their homes. There is no accurate estimate of casualties but apparently many lives have been lost in the suburbs of this city and throughout the interior.

San Juan—already thrown into terror and confusion by the storm which raked the coast and interior—was plunged into darkness tonight. The power plant was greatly damaged and probably will not be able to operate for several days.

Interurban traffic and communication, which was completely interrupted by the storm, had not been restored 20 hours later although traffic with some of the near-by points was partly possible at noon today.

The wind started blowing furiously at noon Thursday. Within a short time it had risen to an alarming velocity.

Los Angeles Police Investigate "Hot Tip"

Los Angeles, Calif., September 14.—(AP)—Information which police and private detectives termed a "hot tip" late today sent them out of the city in two directions on the trail of Clinton S. Carnes.

Search had been conducted for him here but this search was declared yesterday to have been fruitless and was discontinued.

Although each group of detectives tonight stated they believed they had reliable information which might lead them to the missing churchman, both declined to reveal the nature of it or the direction of their search.

Sonia Norida, Lois Griffin and Mrs. Louise Pope again today were questioned briefly by investigating officials.

Strong convictions that Clinton S. Carnes, under indictment for embezzlement of $69,000 from the funds of the Baptist home mission board, has made his way from Atlanta to a South American sanctuary were expressed Friday by members of the home mission board. They based their beliefs on statements that Carnes had made at various times prior to his disappearance that he knew there were "wonderful opportunities" below the equator and the fact that he had been studying Spanish.

Dr. Fred M. Sutton, prominent and well known Atlanta physician, with offices in the Medical Arts building, told The Constitution Friday on his return from a short visit that he was the physician who, reports stated, was sought for questioning in the disappearance of Carnes. Dr. Sutton stated that he knew nothing of the missing treasurer, did not even know him by sight and had no information about him that could aid the search for him.

Did Not Know Carnes.
"I might have seen Carnes at the Atlanta Athletic club, where I am a member, but I did not know him, even by sight," Dr. Sutton said. "I know nothing about Carnes and cannot give any information that would help the authorities."

"Should the solicitor-general's office want me to appear before the grand jury I will be only too glad to do so."

Mrs. Louise Pope Being Questioned in Los Angeles

Mrs. Louise Pope convinced the Los Angeles county district attorney's office Thursday that she knew nothing of Clinton S. Carnes' whereabouts, that office reported Friday. Here is shown Mrs. Pope, her attorney, James Neville (center), and Forrest Murray, chief deputy district attorney, who conducted the questioning of Mrs. Pope. This photograph was taken especially for The Constitution and brought to Atlanta Friday by Associated Press telephoto wires.

FRANCE HONORS CHARLES LORIDANS

Prominent Atlanta Engineer Is Made Chevalier of Legion of Honor in Recognition of Work.

Charles Loridans, distinguished Atlanta engineer and builder, was signally honored recently by his native country when he was made a chevalier of the French Legion of Honor, in recognition of his professional achievements in America.

First word of the award was received in Atlanta Friday in a personal letter from Mr. Loridans, who is now in France, to Philip H. Alston, well known Atlanta attorney and member of the firm of Alston, Alston, Foster and Moore.

Mr. Loridans was born in France and after studying extensively in the famous engineering schools of that country he was sent to America as the representative of a prominent French building and construction company. Representing his firm in Atlanta he was attracted to this city and to the United States and decided to establish a business for himself here. Accordingly in 1908 he founded the Southern Ferro-Concrete company, which he still directs. He has enjoyed marked success in his field and has an enviable reputation nationally as a builder of fine structures.

Mr. Loridans has made his home for many years at 150 Fifteenth street, N. E., and has many friends in Atlanta and throughout the south.

He left here early this summer for an extensive European pleasure trip and is expected back in about a month.

SENATOR SIMMONS REFUSES TO VOTE FOR MR. HOOVER

Newbern, N. C., September 14.—(AP) Senator F. M. Simmons, senior senator of North Carolina, declared today that the group of Wilmington voters who called upon him at his home here yesterday were mistaken when they quoted him as saying a "majority of democrats in North Carolina will vote for Hoover."

He said in amplified statement, that he predicted that a "majority of anti-Smith democrats will vote for Hoover."

He said that he made it very plain to the group that "I will not vote for Hoover."

Councilman Is Robbed By Men He Gave Ride

Falling victim to his own generosity W. R. Johnson, councilman from the eleventh ward, was slugged and robbed Friday night by two young unmasked white men to whom he had given a "lift" in his automobile, according to police reports.

Mr. Johnson, known to his friends as "Uncle Bill," had attended a committee meeting at the city hall and was on his way home, at 907 Kirkwood avenue, shortly before 9 o'clock when two young men hailed him and asked a ride in that direction. Things went well, he reported, until they reached a point on Wylie street, near the fifth ward, where the slugging was carried to Grady hospital, where doctors found it necessary to take five stitches to close a cut in his upper lip.

Wylie. Mr. Johnson complied, and a short way beyond Flat Shoals the pair asked to be let out.

As his "guests" climbed from the back seat the councilman got out of the car, a coach model, to facilitate their exit. Just as all three had stepped to the pavement one of the men pulled out a "blackjack" and struck Mr. Johnson across the face, knocking him unconscious. When he regained consciousness his erstwhile passengers were gone, and so was his money. The thieves left the car.

Call Officers Paul Higgins and M. D. Cartwright were summoned to the scene and the victim of the slugging was carried to Grady hospital, where doctors found it necessary to take five stitches to close a cut in his upper lip.

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—The recent endorsement of the Hoover candidacy by the National Women's Party today, drew from the democratic national committee office the comment that the vote of 19 to 15 was by a "hand picked committee" of the party, with the opponents including "some of the most influential women in the organization, a number of whom have heretofore been known as republicans."

The statement was issued in connection with the formation of a Washington Women's Smith club, which took place in the time-honored home of Francis Scott Key in conjunction with a celebration of the 114th anniversary of his writing of the Star-Spangled Banner. The club membership was said to include some character members of the National Women's party "who refuse to be led by the nose into the republican party and are indignant over the attempt to do this by Mrs. Clarence M. Because of his desire to reach Atlanta late Tuesday afternoon for his address there, it was announced today. The vice presidential nominee also made arrangements to deliver platform addresses in three other Georgia cities en route from Miami to Atlanta Tuesday—in Albany, Americus and Milledgeville.

Senator Robinson declared tonight that the religious issue, in his opinion, was responsible for what opposition had developed in the party's ranks to the standard bearer selected by the House convention.

Senator Robinson will arrive in Atlanta late Tuesday afternoon for his address there, it was announced today. The vice presidential nominee also made arrangements to deliver platform addresses in three other Georgia cities en route from Miami to Atlanta Tuesday—in Albany, Americus and Milledgeville.

Although earlier this week he had expressed a similar view in a prepared address given in advance to the press, the senator on that occasion failed to refer to that portion of the text and tonight was the first time he made the statement before an audience.

Warnings of "Whispering."
His reference to the religious question came at the close of his speech after he had read a prepared address challenging republican claims to economy in government and declaring that there had been an increase in the costs of departments directly under the president during the two "arduous and Coolidge administrations."

Mr. Robinson, who spoke to an audience which overflowed from the city auditorium to the Palm Grove park outside, warned of what he described as the "whispering campaign," and read the letter carried two days ago in the press from State Senator George H. Pearson, a republican member of the New York general assembly, denying the charge that Governor

British Titlist, Who Put

BY DICK HAWKINS,
Constitution Sports Editor.

Brae Burn Country Club, Newton, Mass., September 14.—A gaunt but spectacularly swift with the hammer of St. George emblazoned on his sheath of golfing weapons stands behind the British amateur champion of the United States. A deliberate, dogged dragon-killer of English stock who has a great chance to take the American amateur trophy back to England for the first time since 1911 when Harold Hilton won at Apawamis.

There is no use mincing words. Phil Perkins, the paper salesman from Warwickshire, is a magnificent golfer and if he doesn't beat Robert Tyre Jones tomorrow he should give him as great a battle as he ever had in the amateur. Forget the 13-12 licking Bob gave him at Chicago a few weeks ago. Forget his mediocre rounds in qualifying for this tournament and remember that here is a great golfer at the very top of his great game, playing the kind of golf that only super golf can beat.

A Sound Golfer.
Remember that here is an Englishman who expects to believe the strongest, soundest game since the great Harry Vardon and who now holds the British amateur title; that he is a golfer drunk with victory over four fine golfers in three days of brilliant play, a golfer that turned in two scores on two successive days as good as those of Robert Jones himself.

Remember all these things and you will know that Robert Tyre Jones on this misty, foggy night in Boston appears to be facing the greatest test of his golfing career.

Last night's correspondent predicted a victory for Phil Perkins while most of the scribes were selecting George Voigt as their champion in today's match. Now we predict a great match between the two champions. Remember that Perkins in addition to being the present amateur champion of Great Britain, was the first amateur in this year's British open championship. He was the first amateur below Bob Jones in the British open of 1927. He won the English closed championship last year and was beaten in the finals this year.

He is no new golfer and his record would indicate that he is no novice in the game of wood and iron.

Proved His Mettle.
Some of them laugh at that prediction but most of the scoffers have been converted. Perkins has proven his mettle in this tournament and even if he folds up like an umbrella tomorrow he will have carved a place for himself in American golfing annals. But he will not fold up. He is not a folding knife. He is a very nervous type but he has his nerves.

PULPIT ATTACKS DRIVE METHODIST LEADER TO SMITH

New York, September 14.—(AP)—Dr. Edward T. Devine, of Washington, D. C., dean of the American University Graduate school, a Methodist institution and himself a republican and a dry, accepted appointment today as vice chairman of the college league for Alfred E. Smith. He severely criticized Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt for her appeal to Methodists to vote against Governor Smith.

"If Methodists respond to such appeals as that made recently by Mrs. Willebrandt, and if Mr. Hoover even tacitly connives in such appeals," he said, "then liberals in religion and in politics will no longer be able to feel at home either in Methodism or in Mr. Hoover's party."

"It is not from atheists or Roman Catholics that Methodism needs saving, but from protestant political prohibitionists who are losing their perspective, their sense of decency and their capacity for distinguishing between truth and falsehood."

Chicago, Ill., September 14.—Forty-three persons were reported dead, scores injured many seriously, and property valued in excess of $2,000,000 was damaged by tornadoes in Nebraska, Illinois, South Dakota and Wisconsin Thursday and Friday. Illinois and Nebraska were hardest hit, with the death toll in Illinois estimated at 32. Rescue workers combed the debris of buildings for additional bodies. Nebraska and South Dakota reported 11 dead.

Magnolia Corners, Wis., suffered chiefly from property damage, although one farmer was reported seriously injured.

The southeastern district of Rockford bore the brunt of the Illinois tornado, which swept north into Wisconsin and along Lake Superior. Hundreds of buildings were demolished in Nebraska. Among the dead were several school pupils. Tales of heroism were recounted by workers in the devastated districts where the tornadoes spent most of their fury. Crops, buildings and telephone and telegraph lines were down over a wide area in Illinois, Nebraska and South Dakota.

Rockford, Ill., September 14.—(AP)—A violent tornado today struck the southern portion of Rockford, tore down houses and factories and buried 100 men in the ruins of a chair factory of the Rockford Cabinet company. Thirty persons were reported dead and scores of policemen, firemen and citizens worked frantically for hours to remove the dead and injured from the debris.

After a three-hour check, police announced 30 persons were known to be dead, although they had gone through only part of the wreckage.

In one instance the occupants of a factory were held indoors after a roof had collapsed, during the height of the storm, and this probably saved many from being hit by flying timber. John Lane, of Chicago, blocked the door of the Union Furniture company plant and prevented a panic among the employees who tried to dash into the street.

Scores of automobiles parked along the streets, swept by the storm, were

CRISP LEADS BIG RALLY FOR SMITH

Cordele, Ga., September 14.—(Special.)—At a county-wide rally of Crisp county democrats, held at the courthouse here last night, Representative C. H. Crisp, congressman from this district, told the citizens that the principal question before all democrats in the coming presidential election is one of party trust.

The speaker outlined the record of the republican party during the Harding and Coolidge administrations and contrasted it with that of the preceding democratic regimes. He pointed to the oil scandal and the inefficiency of the major party and asserted that during the sixteen years of democratic control under Cleveland and Wilson more beneficial legislation was enacted than during the entire history of the republican administrations.

"My friends," Representative Crisp asked his audience, "has it ever occurred to you that when Al Smith and Joe Robinson are elected as president and vice president that there will be only one life between Joe Robinson—a red-blooded southerner, son of a Confederate soldier—and the president's chair?" In this connection he called attention to the fact that Arthur Roosevelt and Coolidge had succeeded to the presidency from the vice presidency.

"There is no use to try to dodge the real issue," he continued. "We might just as well admit that the main underlying objection to Governor Smith is his religion—he is a Catholic. We cannot afford, my friends, to deny this great American the privilege we enjoy—that of worshipping God after the dictates of our own conscience and after the teachings of our parents, and of his.

"We are Methodists and Baptists largely because we were brought up in such homes. Is not Governor Smith entitled to the same privilege?"

The speaker then called attention to the fact that under the provisions of the constitution of Georgia and the constitution of the United States, religious liberty is guaranteed, and it is specifically planted and imbedded in the fundamental law of our land that no religious test shall be prescribed as a test for holding office under our system of government.

"My friends, certainly the 18th amendment is no more sacred than this constitutional provision guaranteeing to all men of all parties, religious freedom."

CALDWELL INDICTED IN HANSON SHOOTING

An indictment charging assault with intent to murder was returned Friday by the Fulton county grand jury against Robert Hugh Caldwell, West End real estate dealer, who maintains offices at 830 Gordon street.

Caldwell is accused of shooting J. H. Hanson, 26-year-old contractor, as the latter sat in a parked motor car late Monday afternoon with Mrs. Caldwell in front of a building Mrs. Caldwell is erecting at the corner of Peoples and Gordon streets. Hanson was supervising the construction.

Two charges of a shotgun struck Hanson, who is in St. Joseph infirmary. The shooting, said that she believed her husband's attempt "as on her own life, and that young Hanson threw himself in front of her to protect her. She was not a witness before the grand jury.

Caldwell, in jail, has refused to discuss the shooting. Immediately after the indictment was returned Solicitor General John A. Boykin set Caldwell's bond at $5,000.

AUTOMOBILE THIEF GETS YEAR'S TERM IN FEDERAL PRISON

Pleading guilty to charges of transporting a stolen roadster from Charlotte, N. C., to Gainesville, Ga., Robert Lee Gowder was sentenced Friday by Federal Judge Samuel H. Shibley to serve a year and a day in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

On a plea of guilty to charges of possessing three quarts of liquor, Charlie Lancaster was fined $60. J. W. Cook and J. F. Cheely, indicted jointly for possession of two pints, pleaded guilty. Cook receiving a fine of $20, as he already had paid a state court fine. Cheely received a fine of $60, as he was released on probation by the state court. It was said. Frances Harris, charged with possessing a quart of whisky, was fined $10, having already been fined in state court. Collection of Cheely's fine was deferred 60 days and condition that he make a $75 bond.

The easiest way to have "home-made"

bread is to say

"Southern Bread" to your grocer

WHEN we make Southern Bread we do it just as though you were standing right beside us. And we do it just as you would do it if you had our wonderful bread-making facilities and scientifically regulated ovens. What's more—we use the very same ingredients you've always bought from your grocer. The same famous yeast. The same favorite shortening.

The same nationally advertised flour. Even the same brand of salt you buy!

But we do use more milk than your recipe calls for. Because the extra richness this gives Southern Bread has given it such a preference. And extra richness means extra nutrition. Also extra value.

Buy your "home-made" bread at your grocer's. Ask him for Southern Bread.

BASIL STOCKBRIDGE HEADS LEGION POST

Basil Stockbridge was named commander of Atlanta post, No. 1, of the American Legion, Friday night at the annual election of officers, held at the Chamber of Commerce hall No. 2. Frank Kempton is the retiring commander.

Other officers named were Frank Callaway, senior vice commander; M. M. O'Sullivan, junior vice commander; Arthur Duggan, finance officer; John Hall, chaplain, and Phil Trimble, historian. Members of the executive committee are Robert Strickland, Jr.; Harry Wallerstein, Richmond P. Davis, Asa W. Candler, T. B. Armstrong, Gordon Singleton, Langdon Quinn, M. A. Snyder, Jim Harrison and Bob Stowers. Officers were inducted into office

Friday night by Louis B. Moore, of Valdosta, commander of the state department. Urging the post to prepare itself for immediate service to the community in case of any disaster, Mr. Stockbridge, in his acceptance speech, pointed out that in other sections of the country where mishaps have occurred authorities have turned first to the legion for aid. Plans for an elaborate celebration of the tenth anniversary observance, which falls on Sunday, November 11, were urged by Mr. Stockbridge. Keith's Georgia theater has been tendered for that occasion, and, following a parade, it was proposed by Mr. Stockbridge to hold exercises in the theater which will live long in the memories of Georgia patriots. The new president promised that tangible and definite plans for a clubhouse for the post would be formulated during his administration. The post now owns a lot in Piedmont park, given for that purpose.

AMELIA COMPLETES CROSS-COUNTRY SOLO PLANE HOP

Los Angeles, September 14.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart, woman trans-Atlantic flier, brought her Moth plane down at a suburban airport yesterday, completing a solo transcontinental flight—because she didn't have the nerve to land amid the "swarm of ships" at the national air meet at Mines field. "I'm not a flier," she explained. "I'm just an amateur, a dabbler, flying around the country for amusement."

HALDEMAN LANDS PLANE ON COAST

Los Angeles, September 14.—(AP)—George Haldean, of Detroit, second of the disqualified finishers in the New York to Los Angeles non-stop air attempt, landed his Bellanca plane at Mines Field at 1:19 o'clock this afternoon. Art Goebel, of Los Angeles, had come in first last yesterday only to announce that his flight was broken by a stop at Prescott, Ariz., due to faulty action of a carburetor. The other seven race entries landed at various points between New York and the Pacific coast.

Haldean, who piloted a trans-Atlantic flight plane to a landing in mid-ocean last year, arrived here from Albuquerque, N. M., where last yesterday he ended his non-stop attempt after reporting that he had nearly exhausted his gasoline supply in flying over the Gulf of Mexico. In the case of Goebel, the elements proved a nemesis. Trouble with his oil feed also forced his mid-ocean landing. Haldean said upon arriving at the finish line of the uncompleted non-stop race.

Goebel also blamed storms and terrific winds for eating up his gasoline supply, before he landed at Prescott. He continued on to arrive first at Mines Field at 3:20 o'clock, but his one stop flight and the later reception of reports of all other contestants being down at various points across the country, resulted in the air meet officials calling the non-stop race "no race."

Lieutenant Commander Jack Iseman, flying the trans-Atlantic plane of Charles A. Levine, took off from Amarillo, Texas, at 9:10 a. m., for Los Angeles.

Emil (Hard Luck) Burgin, of Mineola, N. Y., and Captain L. A. Yancy, of New York, non-stop transcontinental fliers who landed their Bellanca plane in a cornfield near Willard, N. M., took off today for Albuquerque.

Burgin landed his plane about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon after being in the air 27 hours and 11 minutes. Strong head winds, he said, exhausted his fuel supply prematurely. Commercial pilots had their innings at the aeronautical exposition today. Planes of many types went up for exhibitions.

HERBERT HOOVER TO PAY NO HEED TO OPEN LETTERS

Washington, September 14.—(United News).—A warning that Herbert Hoover will pay no attention to "open letters" was issued today by George Akerson, secretary to the presidential candidate. Gentlemen do not do things that way, he explained. The statement was by way of rebuking former Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, for writing letters asking Hoover to repudiate whispered attacks on Governor Smith. The letters were made public before Hoover received them. Akerson said, adding: "That is a discourteous practice which Mr. Hoover himself never indulges in. He refuses to pay any attention to such communications when they are handled in that way. That is not the way gentlemen do things."

WOMAN VICTIM SAVES BOY THIEVES FROM PRISON LIVES

Tallahassee, Fla., September 14.—(AP)—Efforts of a Pensacola woman, Mrs. A. B. Dennis, to obtain the freedom of three youths who stole her automobile sometime ago here fruit today before the state board of pardons.

The boys, Thomas Rooney, Thomas Ramsey and Thomas Johnson, were serving a prison sentence at a convict road camp for the theft of the car. Since the conviction, Mrs. Dennis had grieved unceasingly. Today she pleaded with the board to let the boys be placed in her care, and was rewarded with conditional pardons for the trio.

Tears flowed freely around the board table again today when Phillip Beall, Pensacola attorney, in presenting the case of J. D. Trawick, under sentence of death from Escambia county, broke down and sobbed before the finishing his argument, and everywhere in the senate chamber, where the board sessions are being held, there was evidence of tears. Trawick killed his wife and her mother. An effort is being made to have him committed to the hospital for insane.

RECORD FROSH YEAR AT GEORGIA FORECAST

Athens, Ga., September 14.—(AP)—Announcement that about 475 freshmen have already been enrolled as members of the 1928-29 freshman class has given rise to the prediction here that this year's assembly of first-year men will exceed in size any within the long line of classes that have matriculated at the University of Georgia. Freshman week began Wednesday.

This influx of new students will surpass the figure of the last session by approximately 100, university records indicate. However, last year's enrollment was reported as having fallen off somewhat, but the 1928 "yearling" crop will show an increase over any preceding year, it is believed. Most of the increase in enrollment this year will be among the male students, it is understood. The co-ed attendance of 335 of last year is expected to be about the same this year.

Although it is agreed the influx of male freshmen will tax dormitory and housing facilities, the former house of the Phi Mu sorority, Freshman and sophomore co-eds will generally be the occupants of this edifice, it is planned, and they will receive their meals at Sophomore house, the former home of Chancellor Emeritus David Barrow.

Co-eds will benefit, too, in the expansion of rooming facilities at South hall, principal women's dormitory, whose first floor has been made over to allow for the accommodation of about 300 more occupants. The upper floors of this modern structure will be used as heretofore, it is announced.

BLASTED TANKER SALVAGED AT SEA

Charleston, S. C., September 14.—(AP)—Warped and scoured from the explosion last Wednesday morning that cost the lives of five members of her crew, the tanker Shreveport limped into port here under her own power today. She was manned by a salvage crew from the Marine's Harbor, who boarded her after the regular crew had abandoned her at sea, a flaming derelict.

The vessel's only cargo was the charred remains of three members of her crew who perished on board. One other died after his shipmates had rescued him from the burning vessel, the fifth, John Wolfinger, the boatswain, who was picked up by the Clyde liner Mohawk, after clinging 12 hours to a life ring, died in a local hospital this morning. His shipmates, coupled with the shock and exposure, proved too severe for his recovery.

CLAIMS SHIP AS PRIZE

Nine men sailed the Shreveport into the harbor here, dropped anchor off the west end of Sullivan's island. They were commanded by Captain J. F. Swanson, master of the Marine's Harbor, who with his crew, boarded the Shreveport and claimed her as his prize.

Captain Swanson found the tanker adrift near Frying Pan shoal, where her crew had left her and made the escape in two small life boats. The 29 who left the vessel alive were picked up by the Spanish ship Aldecoa and brought into Southampton, N. C.

The fire which broke out after the explosion had burned itself out, the captain reported, and Michael Bonicco, chief engineer of the salvage crew, and Elie C. Caraynis, chief mate, were sent aboard for an inspection.

Fire Still Smolders.
The fire still was smoldering slightly amidships and was being searched hot, but in spite of this they made their way aft from the bow to the damaged pilot house and bridge deck. They found the heavy machinery here, the bridge deck being practically blown away. Continuing on into the shelter deck above the bridge, Bonicco and Caraynis came across the charred remains of the three seamen who were killed by the blast. They appeared to have been killed near the first explosion, they reported, and later were cremated by the flames which licked up out of No. 2 hatch and into the shelter deck.

Identification was impossible, they said. The remains were gathered into a cotton sack to be taken to the proper authorities. They were thought to be A. Bergman, chief mate; D. M. Daggar, pumpman, and Sven Person, machinist.

One End Undamaged.
The after end, where the engine room and crew's quarters are located, was found to be practically undamaged. Steam had died out of the boilers. An inspection of the crew's saloon indicated that the blast probably had occurred shortly before breakfast.

The table was set and there was untouched food on the plates. The personal property of the crew was left in the forecastle. Apparently no attempt had been made to salvage any of their belongings in the hasty getaway.

The chronometer and other instruments of navigation, as well as the ship's log and records, were destroyed with the pilot house.

Bonicco and Caraynis attempted to get a tow line aboard the abandoned vessel but were unsuccessful. The tug turned to their ship for the night. The Marine's Harbor stood by all during the night and the next day the salvage crew boarded her, fired the boilers and proceeded to Charleston.

If the salvage claim is allowed, Captain Swanson and his crew will receive 50 per cent of the value of the tanker, a 4,000-ton craft.

Ohio's Famous Shaker Colony Finally Dies Out

Lebanon, Ohio, September 14.—(AP)—The once famous and prosperous Shaker colony at New Union, near here, has passed into history with the death of its director and last survivor, James F. Fennessey.

Organized in 1905, the colony of religious enthusiasts prospered and grew to an enrollment of 3,000 members owning 4,500 acres of land in the latter part of his life, said the colony, but members tired of the life and drifted away. He himself, in the latter part of his life, said the colony had many disadvantages, especially because of the Shakers' belief in regard to marriage. The greatest disadvantage of the life was the lack of any incentive for individual attainment, he said.

In 1912 the United Brethren church bought the property for approximately $350,000 and established a children's and old people's home. The provision was made, however, that any Shakers residing there at the time might live at the colony the remainder of their lives. By 1920 all but five had left, and all except Fennessey departed in that year.

JAWORSKI INDICTED FOR SLAYING OFFICER

Cleveland, September 14.—(AP)—An indictment charging Paul Jaworski, confessed killer and robber, with first degree murder was returned today by the Cuyahoga (Cleveland) county grand jury.

The bill charges Jaworski with the death of Patrolman Anthony Wiczkowski, who was shot to death yesterday in a fight that ended in Jaworski's capture after a nation-wide search.

Edward C. Stanton, county prosecutor, said he would request a common pleas judge to go to the prison where Jaworski was held, to see if he could be served at once and a plea entered. He said that the trial would be arranged as soon as Jaworski is able to leave the hospital.

Jaworski today admitted participation in the $10,000 robbery of the Detroit News by roll a few months ago. He also told Detective Lieutenant Frank Story that he was preparing to return to "shoot his brother out of jail with a machine gun" when he was captured.

The detective said Jaworski told him that his brother, Sam Jaworski, was being held in a Pittsburgh jail on a charge of aiding him in his sensational jail break.

With Jaworski believed dying, police turned their efforts to finding Vasbinder. Early today 60 policemen searched apartment houses in part of the city where Jaworski said he had been living with Vasbinder. Their hunt was futile and they decided that Jaworski had intentionally left them astray.

HE FLIN, STRATON ARE REFUSED HALL AT MONTGOMERY
Montgomery, Ala., September 14.—(United News).—Senator Thomas J. Hefflin, of Alabama, will not be allowed to use the Montgomery city auditorium for a public address, Mayor William A. Gunter said today.

Gunter said the senator had spoken in Montgomery once and vilified many of our good citizens. He added that he would not permit the use of city property by anyone who preached religious hatred as long as he is mayor.

The Rev. John Roach Straton, of New York, also was denied use of the building. Another building has been secured for the two addresses.

FRANCO-ANGLO NAVAL TREATIES NOT TO BIND U. S.
Washington, September 14.—(United News).—The United States welcomes any naval limitations agreement between Great Britain and France, but does not feel bound by it in any way and policies of this government will not be affected by it, the white house made known on behalf of President Coolidge today.

This was interpreted by some as indicating the United States will press its naval building program regardless of the outcome of the treaty signed in Paris. The 15-cruiser bill which passed the house last winter probably will be up for reconsideration in the coming session.

Washington has not been pleased with the Anglo-French treaty and there is some expectation the project will be abandoned in view of American hostility. However, President Coolidge takes the position that this agreement is a matter between Great Britain and France and that the United States cannot interfere, but can, however, go ahead with its own policies, one of which is the naval building program laid before congress last winter.

STATE INSURANCE HEADS TO ATTEND NATIONAL MEETING
Augusta, Ga., September 14.—(Special).—Georgians who will attend the meeting next week of the National Association of Insurance Agents at West Baden Springs, Ind., include Sidney O. Smith, president of the Georgia Association of Insurance Agents, of Gainesville; Scott Nixon, secretary and treasurer of the state association; Albert R. Menard, of Macon, past president of the Georgia association; and W. Eugene Harrington, of Atlanta, president of the National Association of Insurance Agents. The convention will convene on September 18 and last until September 22.

SEVEN KNOXVILLE OFFICERS FREED AT LIQUOR TRIAL
Knoxville, Tenn., September 14.—(United News).—Seven Knoxville policemen were acquitted by a jury in federal district court here today of charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws.

The jury reached its verdict in less than an hour.

The acquitted men were Beed Fowler, Eli Minner, E. A. Carr, A. E. McLaughlin, S. Decker, Robert Sexton and Rex Hutton.

Charges were filed against the policemen after Bill Landry, a confessed bootlegger, said they had accepted bribes from him. The trial lasted seven days.

BEITZEL SECURES NEW ATTORNEY

Los Angeles, September 14.—(AP)—Russell St. Clair Beitzel today had a new attorney to defend him against a charge of murdering his sweetheart, Miss Barbara Mauger, of Philadelphia. His trial will be resumed Monday after a recess.

In the first four days of his trial this week one of his attorneys quit and another was sent to a hospital for medical observation and to serve a three-day sentence for contempt of court.

Superior Judge Burnell halted the trial yesterday when Vernon R. Hamilton, Beitzel's remaining attorney, walked into court tardy for the fourth consecutive day. Three before the court had admonished him to be on time.

Judge Burnell sentenced him to three days in jail. Last night Hamilton was taken from jail to a hospital, supposedly suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Joseph L. Fainer, whom Beitzel employed as a defender after Hamilton had been disciplined, asked that the jury be excused and then moved for a mistrial on the ground that Beitzel had not been properly defended. The jury was excused but the court overruled the motion for a mistrial and then ordered a continuance until Monday to enable Fainer to acquaint himself with the case.

WILLIAM PENN STILL IS SOLD AT AUCTION

Doylestown, Pa., September 14.—(AP)—A revolutionary rum distillery, licensed to William Penn's farm, caused exciting bidding at a sale in progress here of the famous collection of early American belonging to the old Fountain Inn, which dates back to 1746.

The bidders were told by the auctioneers that if they bought the 50-gallon, burnished copper rum-maker, they could not be arrested because the still had been licensed for private use when it was sold to the Penn family. Nothing was said as to the extension of the license to cover the present-day use of the still.

The still was sold down to J. F. Schenk, of Flemington, N. J. Schenk also purchased two wooden Indians, such as once graced the front of cigar stores. For one he paid $75 and for the other $35.

M'MAHON HEADS TEXTILE WORKERS
New York, September 14.—(AP)—Thomas F. McMahon, of Providence, R. I., today was reelected president of the United Textile Workers of America for two years.

Lady Nancy Astor Is "Coming Home" For Governor's Ball
Richmond, Va., September 14.—(AP)—Lady Nancy Astor, member of parliament, called Governor Harry F. Byrd from London today that she was coming back to "Old Virginia" in time to attend the governor's ball here October 5.

Lady Astor, one of the celebrated Langhorne sisters of Virginia, will be the guest of Governor and Mrs. Byrd during her visit in Richmond.

REEVES IS CHOSEN DEMOCRATIC HEAD IN TROUPE COUNTY

LaGrange, Ga., September 14.—Henry Reeves, prominent member of the local bar, has been chosen as chairman of the Troupe county democratic executive committee for the next two years. Mr. Reeves succeeds H. C. Fincher, who has served in this capacity for the past two years.

Mr. Reeves was elected as chairman at a meeting of the executive committee following the consideration of the returns of Wednesday's primary.

A. E. Daniel was reelected as secretary and treasurer of the committee.

The following delegates were named to attend the meeting of the state senatorial executive committee meeting which will be held in Franklin at an early date: M. L. Moore, chairman; J. T. Thomasson, M. M. Dickenson, N. L. Barker, B. F. Rosser, and E. D. Hammett.

NEW ENGLAND STORM IS FATAL TO ONE

Boston, September 14.—(AP)—A series of terrific wind and lightning storms which swept four New England states late yesterday cost at least one life and left in their wake a heavy toll of property damage.

From Rhode Island and New Hampshire came news of unroofed houses, uprooted trees, felled chimneys and temporary paralysis of communication.

Rindge, N. H., 22 miles east of Keene, was probably the hardest hit of any place. Wind of tornado velocity swept an area four miles in length and half a mile wide causing general havoc and unroofing many houses. Property damage was estimated at $50,000.

Lowell and other places in northeastern Massachusetts experienced a sharp electrical storm which was accompanied by heavy rainfall with washouts frequent.

At Hartford, Conn., James Brown, 62, a golf architect, was killed when struck by lightning in Goodwin park, and William Watson, of Hartford, a brother-in-law, who had taken refuge with him under a tree, was injured. They were playing golf when the storm broke.

The storm in Rhode Island was of near cloudburst proportions. The accompanying wind felled sections of high poles to plunge wide sections on both sides of Narragansett bay into darkness.

PLEASING THE LADIES.
New York, September 14.—Senor Guillermo Fels, engineer of the Buenos Aires subway, is convinced that women would rather be admired than be comfortable. They tried cars for women only in the rush hours, tried them on each end of trains and in the middle. There were many vacant seats in them while the other cars were jammed with women.

BANDIT KILLER AGAIN INDICTED

Cleveland, September 14.—(AP)—An indictment charging first degree murder was returned today by the Cuyahoga county grand jury against Paul Jaworski, fugitive from justice in at least two states, who yesterday killed one Cleveland policeman and wounded another when they attempted to arrest him for return to Pennsylvania, where he is under conviction of murder.

The indictment, charging Jaworski with the death of Patrolman Anthony Wiczkowski, was served at the prison ward of the city hospital where Jaworski is believed recovering from wounds received when he fought a pitched battle with officers and then stood off a small army of policemen after he had taken refuge in a house.

He will be arraigned as soon as he is able to leave the hospital.

The 27-year-old bandit boasted today from his hospital cot that he had killed "25 men or more" during his life of crime. Six murders besides a long string of robberies are charged against him by police. To tell the exact number of his victims, Jaworski said, "would require some refreshment of my memory and I can't do that now."

The condition of Patrolman George E. Effinger, shot in the fight yesterday, and Ben Masterek, a bystander, who was wounded by a stray bullet, was serious and hospital authorities said either might die.

ANXIETY IS FELT FOR THAW, HURT IN PLANE WRECK

Deatur, Ind., September 14.—(AP)—Considerable anxiety was felt today over the condition of Colonel William Thaw, of Pittsburgh, co-pilot of one of the planes in the transcontinental non-stop air races, who was injured when his plane crashed in a forced landing near here Wednesday night.

Colonel Thaw developed a heavy cold last night, due to exposure. He and his pilot, Captain John P. Morris, also of Pittsburgh, lay unconscious in the wreckage of their plane for several hours before they were found by a farmer. Rain fell part of the time.

SECOND OF LABOR LEADERS IS DEAD

Washington, September 14.—(P)—In the death at Quincy, Mass., today of James J. Duncan, first vice president of the American Federation of Labor, the organization lost the second of the triumvirate of leaders—Gompers, Duncan and Morrison—which has pointed its course almost since its inception.

Back in 1894, "Jim," as the popular labor leader and agitator was known, was named second vice president of the federation, and four years later he was elected to the post he held continuously until his death. Only Samuel Gompers, president from 1885 to 1924, exceeded his service as a national officer. Frank Morrison, secretary, has held office since 1897.

President Green and Morrison will be among the mourners at the last rites for the dead leader to be held at Quincy Monday. Members of organized labor, and particularly the Granite Cutters' International association, of which he was president, are expected to be present in large numbers.

"He was a militant trade unionist who believed every organization should stand on its own bottom," Morrison said today. "No man had a greater fund of information on the trade union movement and none was more willing or capable to defend or advance it. He was honest and intense and a splendid personality."

Duncan was held in high regard by President Wilson who appointed him to the international commerce commission. He did not qualify for the appointment which was made during a recess of congress and his name was not sent to the senate for confirmation. In 1917 Wilson named him with five others on a mission to Russia as envoy extraordinary and in 1919 appointed him a member of the American labor mission to the Paris peace conference.

AMERICANS LEAVE NORTH CHINA RESORT

Shanghai, China, September 14.—(P)—All Americans have left Peitai-no, the north China summer resort on the coast, according to United States naval advisers. 18 SCHOOLS PLAN DOUBLE SESSIONS

Too many students and too few classrooms is the cry again in Atlanta's public schools, judging from an announcement made by officials Friday. With the first week of school drawing to a close it was found that double class sessions are necessary in 14 elementary schools and 4 junior high schools to take care of the enrollment.

As a result several hundred pupils in these schools will be forced to attend afternoon sessions but at the present time the authorities have not determined just who shall be placed in these classes.

Buildings now under construction and additions now being made are expected to take care of this excess within a few months but for the time being, according to Willis A. Sutton, superintendent, there is no other solution of the problem.

SNAP-SHOOTERS CHASE PRINCE FOR PICTURES

Los Angeles, September 14.—(P)—Lieut. in George Windsor, R. N., spent a day in Los Angeles and environs yesterday just one day ahead of a pack of photographers bent on making pictures of Prince Edward, the last of the British royal line, Alexander Edmund, youngest son of King George, of England.

The photographers succeeded in snapping a picture of the prince as he entered an automobile with William Slater, of Montecito; Gloria, the prince's only daughter, and June Collier, the last of the film actresses. The cameras' snap caught the party unaware as they were slipping into the machine. Prince George threw up his arms quickly, then relented and graciously posed briefly for the cameras.

Although an officer of Lieutenant Windsor's ship, H. M. S. Durban, anchored off Santa Barbara, had predicted that the only stars of the George would see would be those "in the heavens and in the Stars and Stripes," he seemed to be seeing many of the stars of fiction, according to newspapermen who dogged his heels.

ALABAMA COMPANY SUES KLAN BODY ON LUMBER BILL

Birmingham, Ala., September 14.—(United News)—Suit for $4,027 against the Ku Klux Klan of America, Inc., was filed in circuit court here today by the Tallapoosa Lumber company.

The suit charged that the amount was due the lumber company by the Nathan Bedford Forrest Klan No. 60, of Wadsworth, Ala. The debt was incurred, the suit affirms, on October 14, 1925, when the Klan purchased lumber to erect a dance hall.

R. F. Smith, the lumber company's attorney, said suit was brought against the national Klan because the company had been unable to collect from the Wadsworth klavern although it had won a verdict against the organization. The Klan local had no money, Smith said.

STEEL BACKS WAS 2,389 VOTES

Congressman Leslie J. Steele had a majority of 2,389 votes over William D. Upshaw, his opponent, in Tuesday's democratic primary, official and complete returns compiled Friday by Claude Mayson, chairman of the Fulton county democratic executive committee, revealed. Mr. Steele polled a total of 8,058 votes, and Mr. Upshaw received 5,669.

The victory for Steele, who carried every county in the fifth congressional district, with the exception of Douglas, is seen as a victory for the supporters of Governor Smith in his campaign for the presidency. Upshaw, a former congressman, prohibitionist and arch-foe of Governor Smith, made an intensive campaign, denouncing the nominee and his efforts to bring about modification of the Volstead act.

The county executive committee's official figures show that Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, seeking re-nomination, polled the largest number of votes of any candidate in the county, who had opposition. Solicitor-General Boykin received 10,423 votes to 3,370 for Thomas E. Scott, his opponent. Mr. Boykin's majority was 7,053, the largest given any candidate in the county.

Governor L. G. Hardman polled a majority of 5,105 votes while his opponent, E. D. Rivers, received 3,753. The largest number of votes went to the two unopposed members of the superior court, Judge E. D. Thomas and Judge G. H. Howard. Judge Thomas received 13,832, while Judge Howard polled 13,823.

Smith Packs Suspenders CARRYING TWO EXTRA PAIR IN TRUNK For Western Speaking Tour

BY MARTHA DALRYMPLE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Albany, N. Y., September 14.—A presidential candidate's wardrobe is being assembled in Albany this week preparatory to the departure of a special campaign train Sunday night.

First came the brown derbies, copies of the one that Governor Alfred E. Smith made famous during his early days in state politics when he was one of the young bloods who 20 years ago gleefully adopted the brown derby.

And now come suspenders to complete the nominee's outfit with which he hopes to impress residents of the middle west.

He needed two trick suspenders that had been contributed to his sartorial cause by a friend who had seen a picture of the nominee without his suspenders and with suspenders in full display.

Suspender Picture.
"That picture was taken one awful day when Senator Joe Robinson had come up here on his way to New York," explained the governor. "We all went out to the back yard of the mansion to see the manager and because of the heat we all took our coats off. The camera man found us and took a picture. It was printed pretty quickly, and a conviction in somebody sent me one of these, saying he was glad to see I wore them."

"So all you people have to do to get some good looking suspenders like these is to have your picture taken."

The governor fondled with evident relish the silken elastic of the black and white stripe, and then stretched their elasticity, determining the way they would allow his arms when he gets into oratorical action.

Well, there is one thing I won't lose on this campaign trip," said the governor as he carefully wrapped the galluses ready to be sent to the manufacturer to be included in the official baggage.

At a Neat Dresser.
The governor spends considerable time and thought upon his clothes, and the color ensemble that he always affects has elicited a great deal of comment.

Especially when he wears a green shirt there is a harmonizing green necktie and a slight tab of a green handkerchief peeping from his breast pocket.

One of his favorite costumes is a rich brown suit with which he wears a raspberry colored shirt, a maroon tie and a maroon handkerchief. The only discordant note is sometimes a white collar.

The governor is frank in his approval of stiff shirts, and his collection boasts several of different hues. He has a pair of white shirts, one of which he wears on formal occasions his taste in socks is conservative, but he often manages to get out a fling of color in his socks when he is pursuing only his routine business.

When he displayed the flashy suspenders he glanced apprehensively at the plain socks he was wearing, apparently a little dubious over this combination of colors.

TICK LAW VIOLATORS BEGIN JAIL TERMS

Valdosta, Ga., September 14.—(AP)—Tinker Carroll, Waverly McDonald, Wesley McDonald, Inman Thornton, Shadie Thornton and Oscar Thornton form a sextette of Echols county men who have just begun a six months' jail sentence from the United States court at Valdosta, following a conviction in 1924 upon allegation that they conspired to oppose the federal law regarding tick-eradication work.

These men were among a large number of others indicted by the federal grand jury in 1924, and they were tried and convicted. The case was appealed to the circuit court of appeals and then to the United States supreme court, both of which affirmed the verdict of the trial jury in the lower court. There being no further step to be taken, the men entered the Lowndes county jail yesterday to begin serving their sentences.

When tick-eradication work started in south Georgia opposition developed in Lowndes, Thomas, Brooks and other counties, finally developing into acts of violence in which many dipping vats were dynamited. When the work spread into Echols county dynamiting vats and burning such a variety of guards were placed, and on one or more occasions a pitched battle occurred at vats. Echols county men were indicted for these acts, and the men were finally sent to the penitentiary.

Indictments were secured for conspiracy and for shooting at federal officers, and the six men convicted. A score or more of others are under indictment and are to be tried here during October, despite the fact that Echols is long since tick-free and people generally much pleased with the final result, the tick-raising industry has been reported as worth much more to commerce now than in the tick days.

The three large water-tight ways have been made to begin work early next week on the grounds, making room for more auto-

FLORIDA JUDGMENT DECLARED NO BAR TO GEORGIA DIVORCE

A previous judgment in a divorce petition in another state is not sufficient to bar a subsequent action in Georgia brought by the party who was formerly the plaintiff, the supreme court held Friday in paying the way for a continuance of the suit brought by Mrs. Mary Gentry Pepper against Kelson Lyle Pepper.

A trial court at Tavares, Fla., had previously dismissed a petition for divorce brought by Mrs. Pepper, and a plea for alimony by his wife, ordered the plaintiff to pay costs of court.

Alleging failure to provide and cruel treatment, Mrs. Pepper brought suit in Fulton superior court for a divorce, and defense attorneys entered a special plea that the Florida judgment barred subsequent action in Georgia. Judge G. M. Howard overruled the plea and the supreme court upheld him.

Pepper's declaration alleged that his wife preferred to remain at her position as "odd reporter" for Atlanta newspapers rather than come to a home he had selected in Lake county, Fla. In her petition she asked for temporary and permanent alimony for support of herself and two daughters, one of whom is a minor.

CURTIS STARTS ON SPEAKING TOUR

Washington, September 14.—(AP)—A trail leading through the battle fields of the republican pre-convention struggle in the farming west and doubling back over the path to be followed by Governor Smith lay today before Senator Curtis, the republican vice-presidential nominee.

The senator sets out to fly the republican colors over this widespread area late today. He faces a 5,000-mile journey through 13 states and has been given only 14 days by the national committee in which to make the circuit.

In his baggage, already stained by travel in the eastern campaign, the veteran Kansan had packed a series of speeches for his trip, dealing for the most part with the republican proposal for tariff revision, the agricultural situation and the inland waterways problem.

Before turning toward his homeland in the westward Curtis had arranged a last-minute conference with Herbert Hoover, the republican standard-bearer. It may be their last before the election. The present trip carries the senator up to October 1, when he will arrive at his home in Topeka, Kan., for a brief rest. It is likely he may continue to campaign thereafter in the middle west.

The first stop on the western tour will be made tomorrow at Lexington, Ky., a state which has elected two republican senators in the last eight years. From there he points his way to the northwest. His itinerary follows:

September 18, Evansville, Ind.; September 19, Spencer, Iowa; September 20, Rosebud, S. D.; September 21, Sheridan, Wyo.; September 22, Hardin, Mont.; September 23, Billings, Mont.; September 24, Cheyenne, Wyo.; September 25, Omaha, Neb.; September 26, Springfield, Mo.; September 27-29, Oklahoma.

Will Gunn, Moore Meet Today for City Golf Championship

Floyd, Hughes Fall Before Two Finalists

Gunn Wins, 2 and 1, and Moore Beats His Foe 1 Up in Semi-Finals.

The survival of the fittest will march gallantly forth today at Druid Hills Golf club in the championship rounds of the city golf tournament, seeking trophies and more golf fame.

In the championship flight match, two of Atlanta's most capable young stars will be paired in a 36-hole match to determine the city champion.

Young Will Gunn, brother of the illustrious Watts, and Berrien Moore, finalist in several tournaments this year, will start down the first fairway this morning at 9:30. Their second round match will get under way promptly at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Semi-Final Results.
These two golfing experts of the younger generation won their way to the final bracket by defeating two of the city's finest golfers. Berrien Moore outdrew Julius Hughes after a dramatic eighteenth green putting competition. As the pair left the last two young Moore was 1-up on his opponent as a result of masterful golf over the previous 17 holes. Gunn beat James Floyd, 2 and 1.

The last hole on the Druid Hills course is a difficult 500-yard affair, one of the longest holes of the course. Both players got excellent drives and were on the green in four. Hughes was approximately 20 feet from the pin and he needed the hole badly to even the match. He punted, stroked the ball and it trickled over the velvet-like green and mysteriously disappeared beneath the sod for a par five.

Berrien's ball was some 10 feet from the pin and he needed to sink for a par five and win the match. After a brief reconnaissance he gently tapped the ball and as though some divine power were guiding its course, it fell into the cup, thus ending a very brilliant exhibition of golf. Moore completed a 72 for the 18 holes, while Hughes completed in 73. Their scores follow:

Par out 444 344 435-35
Moore out 454 354 435-37
Hughes out 543 354 435-36
Par in 444 343 435-35
Moore in 444 353 435-37
Hughes in 555 343 435-37

Berrien made 11 pars and two birdies while Hughes accounted for 10 pars and two birdies. Their match was the best witnessed during the present tournament and Moore turned in the lowest score of the present meet, beating Perry Adair's low medal by two strokes.

Wins On Seventeenth.
Will Gunn, paired against Floyd, closed out the match on the seventeenth green. Gunn carried a 40 on the out nine and made the turn one-up. He turned in six pars on the home nine, for a 39 while his opponent took at 41, allowing both players a var figure on the eighteenth, which was not played.

Floyd, out 555 345 445-41
Gunn, in 644 543 335-39
Floyd, in 655 444 445-41

Both of the "nasties" are students of Boy's High school and are also members of East Lake Country club. Berrien has turned in many spectacular rounds of golf this season and is picked by many local fans to win the title. On the other hand, Will Gunn is capable of unbeatable golf when he is "hot," and he gets that way frequently. He and Bobby Jones are co-holders of the Druid Hills record, a 66, which Gunn turned in during the recent Georgia state tournament in which he went to the finals against Charlie Black and lost. Their matches this morning and afternoon are expected to draw a large gallery.

Black Is Defeated.
In the second round matches this morning, Charlie Black was defeated by Julius Hughes, probably the biggest upset of the entire tournament. The defending champion was expected to be a tough opponent for the rest of the championship flight entries but he fell before the onslaught of a bet-

Cooper Big Winner In Architects' Golf Tournament

The sixth annual F. Graham Williams golf tournament for architects and architectural draftsmen was held at Druid Hills Golf club Friday afternoon.

There was much interest shown in the tournament and many excellent scores were turned in. The tournament was based on handicaps.

Sam Homan Cooper was the big winner of the day. He won the medal cup, the southeastern cup and he received a cup for making the most birdies.

The Atlanta cup was won by P. S. Stevens. Joe Cooper proved to be the best driver of the lot and as a proof he drove the ball 276 yards down the fairway to cop a new driver.

The SPORTLIGHT

The final round of a golf championship may be one-sided, now and then, but many of these final days have been packed with excitement. In 1917 at Apawamis, Harold Hilton at one stage led Fred Herreshoff by six holes. During the closing stages of play Herreshoff began to hack away this lead until they stood all square on the thirty-sixth green. It was on the thirty-seventh hole that Hilton played his famous "rock shot." Both had good drives. Going for the hillside, upland green, Hilton sliced far to the right. The ball headed for a huge rock, guarded by heavy foliage, where recovery was almost impossible. But in place of coming off into deeper trouble it skidded to the left and hopped upon the green, only a few yards from the pin. The turn of fortune broke up the American's attack and he missed his second.

One of the greatest of all the final battles took place between Max Marston and Jess Sweetser at Flossmoor in 1923. Sweetser was 1-up on the thirty-fifth tee—1 up with two to play. On the next hole Sweetser got his par 5, but Marston dropped a 12-footer for a birdie 4, squaring the match. The last hole at Flossmoor is around 500 yards in length from the back tee. Both were a few yards short of the green on their second. Marston then chipped up two feet from the cup, fast an approach of 50 yards. Sweetser had to walk away from his ball twice after addressing it, the rush and chatter of the crowd. But he chipped six feet past the pin and holed his putt for a birdie 4 and a half. It isn't often that two break par under such conditions.

Bobby Jones ran away with the final turns at Jericho, Oklahoma, and the Von Elm-Jones final have been the closest of the last 10 years.

The Feel of the Club.
When George Von Elm turned in his 272 for 72 holes in the Ocean View Gold Medal tournament, he stated later that for those four rounds—16 under eleven—fours—he had "the feel of his club." Every golfer knows what that means. It is the feel of the Bobby Joneses and the Walter Hagens. But none of them can explain how it comes about, or what may cause it.

On certain days you discover that you can play much better than you have been playing. You may not feel physically as fit. You may even be mentally upset. But there it is—a rainbow in the sky—that marvelous feel of control—of touch of time—of the ball continues to fall upon the green somewhere near the cup.

For the Von Elms and the Joneses, it means a 65 or a 67. For the club it may mean 109 in place of 123. Or a 94 in place of a 108.

Douglas Edgar used to say that it came from the feeling of "thin hands." "When my hands feel thin I can play better," he remarked. "When they feel thick, I know I am through."

He said before a certain round in the United States open that his hands felt thin. He turned in a 70. I saw him at lunch. "You ought to lead the field by night," I suggested. He shook his head. "I'm through," he replied. "My hands have turned thick." That afternoon he had an eighty-three.

Physical fitness or unfitness apparently has little to do with it. This feel of the club may arrive when one is unfit—or it may vanish when one feels at his best. It came to Johnny Farrell suddenly after his first two rounds at Olympia Fields.

I once asked Walter J. Travis if he could explain how this feeling of touch and timing came and went. He said that he had given it a lot of thought, but it was beyond explanation. "I only know," he added, "that it suddenly came to me at Sandwich in 1904, after I had been playing miserably. A day or two before the championship started my game came back and I felt like a different golfer. Every shot suddenly seemed easy and simple, where before every shot had been an effort and a struggle."

Track Scandal Names Rajah And McGraw

Chicago Turf Body Investigating Wholesale Broadcasting of "Dope."

Chicago, September 14.—(AP)—Two leaders of the baseball world, John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, and Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, made emphatic and complete denials today of charges they had participated in betting on "fixed" horse races at the Arlington park track through information alleged to have been supplied them by C. E. Allen, one of the leading jockeys of the west.

McGraw and Hornsby telegraphed to Commissioner Landis that neither had violated the rules against baseball players wagering on horse races. Each denied knowing Jockey Allen or having communicated with him.

Landis to Investigate.
Commissioner Landis said he must necessarily make an investigation, but that he was inclined to believe both McGraw and Hornsby.

The charge, which the baseball managers deny and which Allen said he could disprove, is that the jockey received an apartment in the exclusive Lincoln Park district and there used the long-distance telephone to convey tips to McGraw and Hornsby, among others, whose names were not mentioned, running up a telephone bill of $250.07. The charge became known through publication of a telephone collection letter to Allen, naming McGraw and Hornsby among the persons telephoned.

Charles Bidwell, secretary of the Illinois Turf association, said he believed the charge against Allen was false and that the jockey had been "framed by a tout," an illicit tipster. "The charge is due to the use of Allen's name by someone else," said Bidwell.

"The Illinois Turf association is satisfied with the integrity of Jockey Allen," Charles Bidwell, president of the Turf association, said the association had no evidence implicating Allen in any wrongdoing and that it was quite common for someone else to represent himself as a jockey to sell so-called tips.

The management of the hotel, where the phone calls were said to have been made, said there was no resemblance between the "Allen" registered at the hotel and Jockey Allen. Peabody said:

A telephone company's collection of the calls were made by a man, "C. E. Allen," known as the jockey's wife.

O. J. Foster, a horse owner who holds Allen's contract, said Allen was not married and that he had been living with him since the start of the Chicago racing season last June.

Detectives Engaged.
Private detectives were engaged by the Turf association to search for the man and woman, implicating Allen, McGraw and Hornsby in the scandal.

"It's all a joke," said Allen, "being told by a tout. I never ran up phone bills calling Boston or New York."

Later the Illinois Turf association indicated it would offer a large reward to apprehend the man which it is convinced represented himself as Allen.

Sam G. Nuckols, presiding steward at Arlington, who was credited with breaking up a powerful jockey tipping ring in Kentucky several years ago, also said he was certain Allen had been done a great injustice by an impersonator.

"The stewards of Arlington Park, after a careful investigation, have no chance of the matter coming up for the next few years will be slim indeed unless suitable material can be produced from the ranks of the first-year men."

Cochet Wins His Way To Semi-Final Round

Advances With Three Americans in Battle for National Singles Laurels.

Forest Hills, N. Y., September 14.—(AP)—Henri Cochet has yet to be stopped. Cochet, lone surviving foreign threat for the United States national tennis championship, coasted to victory over a young American opponent this afternoon and stands tonight in the semi-final round together with three Americans.

Francis T. Hunter, George Lott and Frank Shields remain to bar Cochet's way to the title and if possible to prevent it from making another voyage to France.

That this will be a difficult task was indicated by the easy manner in which the acrobatic little French stylist defeated Gregory Mangin in a match which was begun yesterday and completed this afternoon by scores of 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2. Cochet virtually was spotting the Newark, N. J., boy one set, so far as today's game went, as the American took the first set from him yesterday before rain caused a postponement.

In similar ready fashion, Hunter drove ahead to victory this afternoon over Jack Crawford, of Australia, by scores of 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. Hunter had won two-thirds done yesterday and was beaten by scores of 6-2, 6-4, by Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, this was the entire tennis fare of the day.

Except for another of those exhibitions of feminine against masculine tennis, in which Miss Helen Wills, the woman champion of three nations, was beaten by scores of 6-2, 6-4, by Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, this was the entire tennis fare of the day.

Most of them had come to see the brilliant fight of the 29-year-old Mangin against Cochet, but the Jersey boy this time was far from the steady and often flashy player who carried that one set so brilliantly early last evening. Encountering one of the greatest tennis players in the world is hard on the nerves of a youngster just out of his teens, especially when he has a long, imaginative and doubtless restless night in which to think about it. Be that as it may, Mangin was a more cautious, less daring and accordingly much less successful player in these closing sets.

The crowd was with him to a man, but on this occasion Cochet refused to let the often ill-timed cheering bother him. Except for one game, which he lost on his own service at love, apparently because of a nerve upset by the posting of a wrong score on the board and the consequent shouting of the crowd, he applied himself steadily to the work in hand.

Striving constantly to improve his marksmanship and cure himself of expensive misuses, Mangin unconsciously cut down his speed. The one game he carried in the second set was gained in one quick flash of the dazzling change of pace which was so effective yesterday in a succession of slow chops finished off with a knife-like placement drive.

The first of tomorrow's semi-final fights, scheduled for 2:30 p. m., with the other to follow at 3:30, is a "natural" between Lott and Hunter, in which neither one can be called an outstanding favorite. The big interest of the day is the match between Cochet and Shields.

Plans Made For Baron, Chick Series

If Play-Off Is Necessary Series Will Open Next Friday in Birmingham.

Memphis, Tenn., September 14.—(AP)—If the Chicks win their remaining three games and the Barons their two there will be at least one play-off in the Southern association and perhaps two.

If Birmingham beats Atlanta today and tomorrow and Memphis wins two straight from Nashville, the defeat of Little Rock Sunday the play-off for the second half championship will begin in Birmingham Tuesday. Two games out of three to decide the victors. The second game will be played in Memphis Wednesday and the third, if necessary, also would be played in Memphis on the following day.

In the event Memphis won the three-game series the play-off between the Chicks and Birmingham, winner of the first half of the split season, would be on the following schedule:

Friday and Saturday in Birmingham, Sunday and Monday in Memphis and the fifth game, if required, at Birmingham on the following Tuesday. The series between winners of the first and second half is to go five games or until one team wins three.

Carrollton, Ga., September 14.—Carrollton defeated Talladega, 5 to 0, here today in the fifth game of the Georgia-Alabama flag series and the count in games now stands Carrollton three, Talladega two. A White was complete master of the situation today and allowed Talladega only five scattered singles and fanned five. Carrollton scored three runs in the first inning when they hit McCaughlin for two doubles and three singles. Another was added in the third when J. White singled, score second, went to third on an infield out and scored on Huggins' sacrifice fly. The last run came in the eighth when John White slammed out his twenty-eighth home run of the season. James Talladega, J. White and Rowe all secured two hits out of four times up while Finney got two of Talladega's singles in three trips to the plate.

The sixth game of the series will be played in Talladega Saturday and if a seventh is necessary it will probably be played in Atlanta at St. Louis field either Monday or Tuesday of next week.

MANUSH STIRS UP BIG NOISE IN BAT RACE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Heinie Manush continued his terrific clip yesterday with a triple and a home run in four times at the bat against the White Sox in St. Louis, but suffered a setback when an official revision in his figures by the American league statistician, Irwin M. Howe, added five times at bat to his record.

Even with this obstacle in his path, Manush finished the day with a mark of 200, one point ahead of Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, and five behind Goslin of the Senators, both of whom were idle.

In the national battle, Paul Waner got three out of four as the Pirates defeated Cincinnati by 5 to 1, while the best Hornsby could do in two games against the Giants was three out of seven. 4 Famous Coaches Write of Outlook On College Grids Zuppke, of Illinois, tells of the prospects in the college football season. Roper, Princeton, discusses the east; Howard Jones, Southern California, gives the low-down in the far west; McLaughlin, Vanderbilt, writes of the south. That's the layout for grid fans who read The Constitution.

This series, written exclusively for The Constitution, begins Sunday with Bob Zuppke's dope on the more important college teams in the middle west. Roper's story will appear Monday. Howard Jones will write Tuesday. McLaughlin on Wednesday.

And throughout the season these four famous coaches will continue to write exclusively for this paper, each expert confining his writing to the football territory he knows best.

Start with Zuppke in The Constitution tomorrow.

Bobby Jones, Perkins Meet in Finals Today

under iron control. The only outward sign of the seething turmoil within him is the chain of cigarettes he smokes from first tee to final green. He is never without a cigarette in his mouth, lighting one from the one before and so on, endlessly.

He has plenty of nerve. Just as an example, turn back to the twenty-eighth hole of that great match with George Voigt. See the American youth lay a chip shot two feet from the pin for a certain birdie and see the Briton study his chip shot carefully and poke the ball inside that of Voigt for a "kissin'" birdie and a half when the hole seemed lost.

Sinking Long Ones.
Comparing cards—that futile pastime have been addicted to for several days—it is apparent that Perkins would have been four down to Bobby at the twenty-fourth hole today but there are a lot of things to consider in that figuring.

Perkins was getting down some long putts and he was making almost no mistakes. If some of those putts don't fall for him tomorrow the story may be different. It hardly seems possible that any man can stay at the very top of his game for as long as Perkins has in this tournament and still be on top tomorrow. But Bobby also has had two great days and may get sloppy tomorrow.

Almost every argument you may advance in support of a prediction for tomorrow is full of holes when it is subjected to the x-ray of life.

We can do naught but predict the victory of Bobby Jones because we just can't figure that the Briton will stay at the top of his game while Robert slips. If both are at the top of their game there is no question of the outcome. At the top of his game Robert Jones can be beaten by no golfer in the world today. One bold possibility is that both golfers will be on the downhill slide in their games tomorrow.

In that case, the battle of the century is sure to result. With these two great golfers fighting against missed shots and forced to make recoveries, the gallery would get the thrill of the ages. At such a game Bob should triumph for never was there a golfer who could play so badly and score so well as he.

Score Favors Bobby.
And there you have it. The dope points to Robert Jones as the 1928 amateur champion of the United States and of the world if you choose. And with the dope all pointing toward Robert, it is a wonder Jones would wonder just what will happen.

In Perkins' round against Voigt today the outcome was never in doubt after the morning round was finished. At that time Perkins was but one up and Voigt was playing good golf but after Voigt had evened the match the second hole of the afternoon round he began to slip and by the time nine holes had passed, he had folded up like another young man who has been hit by a train.

Giants Climb To Within One Game of Top

Fourth Twin Victory Puts McGrawmen on Heels of Cards; Record Is Set.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The turmoil in the National league became even greater yesterday when the Giants created a new major league record by sweeping their fourth consecutive double-header at Boston while the Cardinals were mauling the Phillies for an easy victory, by 13 to 6. The Cubs were idle.

The clan McGraw thus crept up to within one full game of the leading St. Louisans, with the Cubs one and one-half games further down the scale. Chicago plays two in Boston today and St. Louis two in Philadelphia while the Giants are entertaining the Robins in a single game at the Polo Grounds.

Philibosian's Prices On Oriental Rugs

Are made when our great purchases are made . . .

Buying a thousand Rugs
at a time automatically
Reduces the Selling Price.

Our rug prices are made when we buy the rugs—the large quantities in which we buy them make the price.

We bought the entire import shipment of two importers—one of Persian, the other of Chinese rugs—just as they came in. We didn't need so many large rugs—there were fifty extra large rugs in the collection—but we took them all—to make the price.

The Persian collection includes fifty rugs 17 to 25 feet in length. Ordinarily we would have ordered no more than ten over-sized rugs, but here are the fifty in a most beautiful variety with prices that are particularly Philibosian's—prices made very low by the size of the purchase—and by the fact that we took them all regardless of our needs.

We sell large quantities of Orientals every day. Than which there is no greater proof of Atlanta's appreciation of Philibosian's rug values. We were assured of this in a very splendid manner very recently:

A new customer who bought several Persian scatter rugs this week, said, very candidly, "I have shopped around for rugs, I'm satisfied this is the place to buy them—you have the variety and your prices are a third less than I have found them."

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

CUBBY TRIES TO GET IN.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Who to his anger giveth way. Will find that it will seldom pay.

For a week nothing happened at the sugar-house where Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, Mrs. Whitefoot and Trader the Wood Rat were living in comfort and security. It really was an ideal home they had there. Inside that little sugar-house they felt secure from every one excepting Shadow the Weasel. But as they never felt secure anywhere from Shadow the Weasel they didn't think much about it. They came and went freely and they never noticed more time outside the sugar-house. Not since the visit of Yowler the Bobcat had an evening appeared.

One night just about dusk when Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot were getting ready to go out, Trader the Wood Rat came in in a great hurry. He certainly did come in in a great hurry.

"What is it?" asked Whitefoot, anxiously.

"Sh-h-h-h," said Trader, putting a hand to his lips.

Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot listened anxiously. Presently they heard a snuffing and a snuffing and a blowing. "Bear" whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

Now, as you know, there was a piece of stovepipe coming up through the roof to serve as a chimney. That stovepipe interested Cubby from the start. He tried to look down it, but he couldn't see anything. He took a long snuff, with the result that he saw a lot of soot up his nose, which was most unpleasant and made him cough badly. This made him lose his temper. He struck at that stovepipe and he struck hard. Now, this chimney was held in place by wires, so the first blow that Cubby gave it merely dented it. He cuffed it again and he cuffed hard. This time one of the wires broke. Again Cubby struck and another wire broke. By this time that piece of stovepipe was all battered up. Finally, it came apart and rolled down the roof, hanging by one wire. All that was left was what looked like a hole in the roof. Cubby stopped to investigate this, but he couldn't see anything. You see, another length of that pipe continued on down inside.

Cubby sniffed as he had sniffed before and the same thing happened. He coughed and he sneezed and he wanted to fight something, but there wasn't anything to fight. He jumped at the piece of stovepipe still hanging by a wire and down to the ground they went together, so, of course, the wire broke. There Cubby cuffed the piece of stovepipe to his heart's content and the piece of stovepipe didn't hit back once.

MAN HAD PAINS IN BACK; FELT DIZZY

Seemed Like He Would Tumble On His Head, But Bad Feeling Went Away After He Took Black-Draught.

Georgetown, Ky.—A well-known resident and property owner here, Mr. S. E. McFarland, of 418 First Street, gives the following account of his use of Theodore's Black-Draught:

"I have been a user of Black-Draught for fifteen or twenty years, and can highly recommend it.

"I used to get very constipated. This would cause pains in my back and limbs. I also took Black-Draught for indigestion.

"I would get up mornings, feeling so dizzy, just like I would tumble on my head, and after a few doses of Black-Draught, this would be gone. It relieved indigestion and constipation, and would make me feel like new.

"I cannot say too much for Black-Draught.

"My wife takes Black-Draught, too, for constipation. It is a good medicine."

Thousands of other men and women find Black-Draught of great help in relieving and warding off common ailments, due to constipation, biliousness and indigestion.

For several generations the old, well-known Theodore's Black-Draught, in a yellow package, has been a familiar item in family medicine chests.

Now, as you know, there was a piece of stovepipe coming up through the roof to serve as a chimney. That stovepipe interested Cubby from the start. He tried to look down it, but he couldn't see anything. He took a long snuff, with the result that he saw a lot of soot up his nose, which was most unpleasant and made him cough badly. This made him lose his temper. He struck at that stovepipe and he struck hard. Now, this chimney was held in place by wires, so the first blow that Cubby gave it merely dented it. He cuffed it again and he cuffed hard. This time one of the wires broke. Again Cubby struck and another wire broke. By this time that piece of stovepipe was all battered up. Finally, it came apart and rolled down the roof, hanging by one wire. All that was left was what looked like a hole in the roof. Cubby stopped to investigate this, but he couldn't see anything. You see, another length of that pipe continued on down inside.

Cubby sniffed as he had sniffed before and the same thing happened. He coughed and he sneezed and he wanted to fight something, but there wasn't anything to fight. He jumped at the piece of stovepipe still hanging by a wire and down to the ground they went together, so, of course, the wire broke. There Cubby cuffed the piece of stovepipe to his heart's content and the piece of stovepipe didn't hit back once.

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

INSTALLMENT LXVI.
GREEK MEETS GREEK.

Elizabeth clung to Stephen as she spoke.

"You have trifled with my young affections long enough. As a matter of fact I refused Mr. Koonce ages ago. He is going to marry Miss Wetherby—thought he doesn't know it yet." She laughed softly. "We shall quarrel all the time."

"Every day and all the day," he agreed. "It will be the greatest fun in the world."

She returned his kisses with a passion that moved him strangely, and for a time neither of them spoke. Then she said lightly, "I give you fair warning. You shall have your choice—either you give me all my own way or I take it."

Stephen laughed, committing himself to nothing. What did such trifles matter, what did anything in the whole world matter, save the young Elizabeth herself—his young Elizabeth now? A month later they were married.

They were to see Mrs. Vestington once more. They were traveling on a train to the south and had to change trains at Mound Hollow Junction. To the happy girl it seemed a lifetime ago since she had last come to this place, but her face shadowed as she looked at its desolation. If Mound Hollow had not been here for choice, Elizabeth had changed her mind. Mound Hollow had not; beauty and character glowed with a richer depth; wisdom and motherhood had not taken from her; they had given. Even her vitality was fuller.

Yet she had had her dark hours and tragedy had nearly been the end of them. Her first boy, a weird, uncanny looking little creature, had hardly survived his birth—the doctor held it well. It had been so—and mother and child were nearly gone. Stephen's gray hairs spoke of that time; his lips never did. Now there was an irresponsible younger Stephen, and a fat, motherly nurse was carrying a bundle of long clothes in which something alive protested from time to time—a very young Elizabeth to boot. Stephen with the help of the porter, was trying to boost the fat nurse into the carriage engaged for her and at the same time keep young Stephen in order—no light task. He then returned somewhat heated to the next carriage, where his wife awaited him.

"I told you that woman was too fat," he said crossly. "I had to boost her into the car, and how we got her into the railway carriage I don't know. She nearly dropped the young Elizabeth!" he added with indignation.

His wife did not seem to hear. She had turned very pale and was staring at something or somebody at the station. "O, Stephen, look—there's Mrs. Vestington!" She began to tremble.

His face was all concern at once. "It's all right, darling. He put his arm around her. 'But I don't see her.'"

"Look, there she is. She must have come to meet some fresh girl. I must stop her going somehow."

He followed her eyes and gasped. "That—that can't be Mrs. Vestington!" he gasped. "How—how she has changed!"

Gone was the pinkness and the plumpness, the vitality; it was a veritable figure of death that stood there, incredibly old and shrunken; life still lived in the hungry, terrified eyes, the rapacious hands still seeking to clutch and hold. "What? Something that she knew had passed from her forever."

"She looks a thousand," he got out at last, repelled yet fascinated. "She must be nearly a hundred."

said Elizabeth. "One would think the thought of rest would be sweet enough at such an age, but not to her. It can't be long now, and she knows it. . . that's why she looks so terrible. You can see it in her eyes. . . a soul in hell would look like that." She shivered, thrusting her hand into Stephen's. "I am glad Julian made good on his own account; he will know how to use all that hoarded wealth when it comes. It never brought her one thing worth buying; she must know that, too, now too late. She wanted to snatch everything for herself, and so she got nothing all her days, just went empty. Where is the girl she's come to meet. I must speak to her, dear, do what I can."

"I don't think there will be any need, dearest, look!"

The woman in question, going now towards her employer, was middle aged, bony, with eyes hard as stones, and a thin, tight, selfish mouth. No giver this of anything, a getter all the time. She would be in no danger from others, but others might well feel danger in her; it would not be she that would go to the wall.

"Greek meets Greek," said Stephen, his own mouth hard. He could not forget what this old hag had done to the young girl, what she had come within an ace of doing to the wife, and how her shadow had been flung across the face of the newborn so that he had died of it; never forget, never forget; never speak of it. That was Stephen.

Elizabeth looked at the old tyrant advancing to greet a fresh source of life, hoping in spite of many rebuffs, and she saw the sick dismay, the hopeless despair.

Mrs. Vestington moved on, but it was as if at last she had bowed her head to the blow, knew hope and courage dying if not dead.

"I have learned something," said Elizabeth. "I can pity." She had never guessed that hate and loathing could give place to pity, and that in feeling pity she would gain release from the long nightmare, but so it was. Perhaps Mrs. Vestington, seeking to victimize, was horrified, but a victim of some strange blind force. The prey became in the end the prey. The strong who had thrust the weak to the wall were now crushed against it themselves. On the heels of those who had moved down others strode the great reaper. . .

It was the eyes of the two women. . . the eyes of the beginning of life's gray journey, the other at the end of gray journey, the anxious eyes of death looking into the happy eyes of life. . . a last long look.

The train moved on and Elizabeth leaned against her husband. "If I had not escaped in time. . ." she murmured.

Elizabeth was silent. All over for her, yes, but for others? Were such things ever quite done with? Was not life one long procession of them; there would always be the preys, so there would be the prey, and both must walk in hell.

"Come, dearest. . ." it was Stephen's voice, urgent, yet merry. "It is I who have things to gloom over! How little I thought the first time I came down here that some day I should be the owner not only of one abominable young Elizabeth, but two! Had I guessed I should certainly have died in sheer horror!"

Elizabeth grew radiant again. "But you are the possessor of a very great gift, darling," she said, laughing. "She is the most beautiful face I have ever seen. . . his wife was going to pay him one of her too rare compliments. "And what is that?" he asked.

"Fortitude!" she mocked.

He was brutal enough to snatch the last word from her. "God knows I have needed it," he retorted.

Huge Applause Wins Victory For Janet Kelly in Contest

FINALS SLATED FOR 9 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

BY ELMO HAMBY.

Receiving a great ovation, Miss Janet Kelly Friday night was selected by the audience as the winner of the first night's elimination trials in the contest for the title of "Miss Georgia." The contest was held at the Howard theater.

At 9 o'clock tonight finals will be held. Five girls, selected one each night this week, will meet to determine the winner—the girl who will receive the four-week contract for appearance on the Howard stage at $75 per week.

These girls are: Miss Elsie Rudderham, Monday night; Miss Robina Astin, Tuesday night; Miss Louise Smith, Wednesday night; Miss Hazel Jones, Thursday night; Miss Janet Kelly, Friday night.

In a snappy costume which matched her vivacious personality, Miss Kelly won the contest of the first night, and she was obliged to do an encore for the audience which followed a song bit in which she imitated to the customers out front that the genial baton-waver, Ray Teal, was more or less pleasing to the eye.

Misses Bobbie McKinnon and Alma Burnett also received nice hands for their offerings, but fell short of the reception accorded Miss Kelly.

According to members of the "Gems," Publicity unit playing the Howard this week, the entrants in the contest all give exceptional promise and the word of these veteran and skilled performers is of great importance.

While audience applause will largely govern the selection of the winner tonight a capable committee of judges will make the final decision which will award one of the girls the coveted contract.
